

https://www.omaha.com/money/conagra-timeline/article\_7ef057b4-6222-11e5-948e-c35ecee8328e.html

ConAgra timeline: 1890-2015

Oct 1, 2015

Update: ConAgra has announced plans to move its headquarters to Chicago.

***

1905 and before: Several brands that will one day be owned by ConAgra Foods make their debut, including Hunt's tomatoes (1890), Wesson cooking oil (1899) and Hebrew National hot dogs (1905).

NOW PLAYING

10 of 20 " // ° HD

The Amount of Money Kids Earn From Chores Will Ma...

NEXT What in the Blazes?! Attic Fire Turns Out To B...

1919: Four Nebraska flour mills – Henry Glade Milling, Ravenna Mills, Hastings Mills and Blackburn-Furry Mill – consolidate and incorporate as Nebraska Consolidated Mills, headquartered in Grand Island.

1920s: A number of brands that later become part of ConAgra are founded, including Peter Pan peanut butter and Chef Boyardee canned pasta.

1922: Nebraska Consolidated Mills (NCM) reports its first profit – $175,000 – and makes its first acquisition, the Updike Mill in Omaha. NCM headquarters move to Omaha for better access to Omaha's grain market and extensive rail network.

Chuck Sass, left, Gary Beasley take break at Decatur mill on October 1, 1972.

Buy Now

THE WORLD-HERALD

1941: In the first company expansion outside the Cornhusker State, Nebraska Consolidated Mills builds a new flour mill in Decatur, Alabama.

1950s: TV dinners take off; Banquet Foods is founded and would later become a unit of ConAgra. In 1957, Nebraska Consolidated Mills completes its first foreign expansion with the construction of a mill in Puerto Rico.

1960s: The company expands to Europe with a mill in Spain. And with the purchase of Montana Flour Mills, Nebraska Consolidated comes to own flour-milling operations that span the United States.

1969: In NCM's 50th year, flour provides 40% of its total sales.

1971: Nebraska Consolidated Mills changes its name to ConAgra Inc. The company employs 4,105 people in 13 states, Puerto Rico and Spain.

1973: ConAgra common stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Mike Harper was named chief executive in 1976 and transformed the company from a flour producer into a consumer packaged foods giant by acquiring firms such as Banquet and Armour Foods.

1976: Mike Harper is named chief executive and transforms the company from a flour processor into a consumer packaged foods giant by acquiring firms such as Banquet and Armour Foods. Harper was named chairman in 1981.

1981: Sales reach $1 billion.

1982: Grain is still a big part of ConAgra. The acquisition of Peavey Co. makes it the largest publicly traded grain merchandiser.

1985: Fiscal 1985 sales pass the $5 billion mark.

1986: CEO Harper threatens to move ConAgra to another state if substantial business and tax incentives aren't offered from state and local officials.

1987: Nebraska Legislature passes a suite of incentives that offer tax credits and other aid to companies meeting certain employment and capital expenditure requirements. Corporate jets are among the equipment qualifying for tax credits. Other parts of the legislation were seen as executive-friendly, such as lowering the state income tax for the wealthy and exempting profits from the sale of stock issued by a taxpayer's employer from state income tax.

1988: ConAgra joins with a partner to acquire Lamb Weston, a leading potato processor and now the centerpiece of its commercial foods division serving restaurants and institutions. ConAgra later comes to own the entire Lamb Weston operation. The first Healthy Choice frozen dinners are introduced.

Former St. Louis resident Jim Miller on the new ConAgra building 4th floor on August 6, 1989.

Buy Now

THE WORLD-HERALD

1989: The new company headquarters on the Missouri River in downtown Omaha opens, built on the site of the historic Jobbers Canyon warehouse district where more than 20 buildings were demolished to make way for the new campus.

1990: ConAgra makes its largest acquisition to date, buying Beatrice Foods. The deal adds well-known brands such as Hunt's tomatoes, La Choy Asian dinners and sauces, Orville Redenbacher's popcorn, Wesson oil and Swiss Miss cocoa.

Mike Harper, left, and Phillip Fletcher at the company's headquarters on July 7, 1991

1992: Phil Fletcher is named chairman and chief executive officer, replacing Mike Harper.

Bruce Rohde

1997: Bruce Rohde is named chief executive officer and becomes chairman in 1998.

NOW PLAYING 10 of 20 " // ° HD

If You Have a Cold, You May Want to Skip the Cough...

NEXT The Amount of Money Kids Earn From Chores...

1998: ConAgra acquires more brands – Fleischmann’s, Parkay, Blue Bonnet, Egg

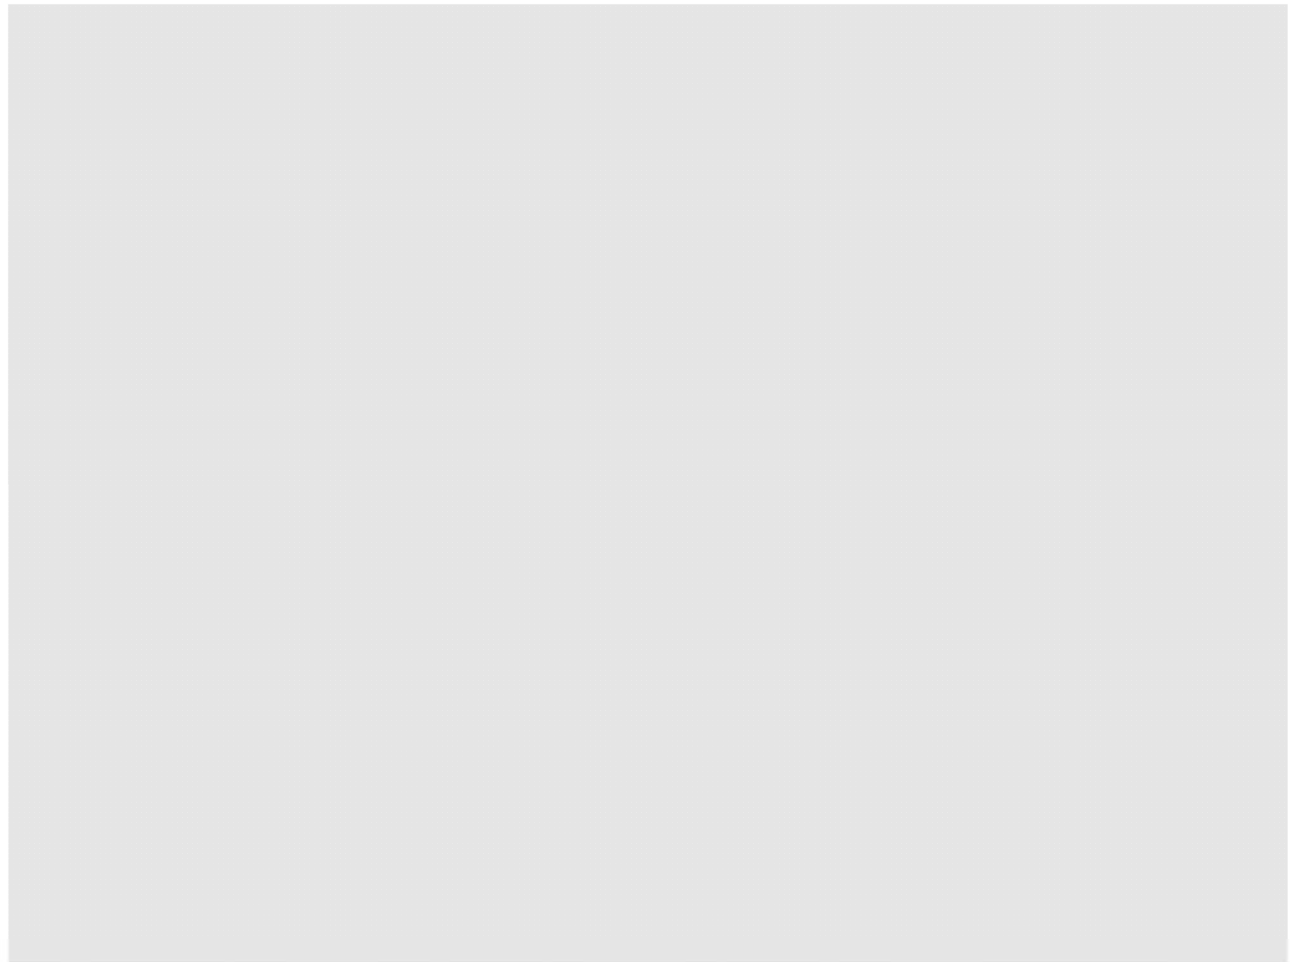

Beaters, Slim Jim and Pemmican.

2000: ConAgra Inc. becomes ConAgra Foods Inc.

2002: ConAgra sells meat, seafood and cheese businesses such as Butterball, Armour, Eckrich, Swissrose and Louis Kemp.

2004: ConAgra Foods' sales mix, 51% of which came from fresh meat and other commodities in 1998, continues to change, with more than 80% coming from branded packaged foods.

Former ConAgra CEO Gary Rodkin

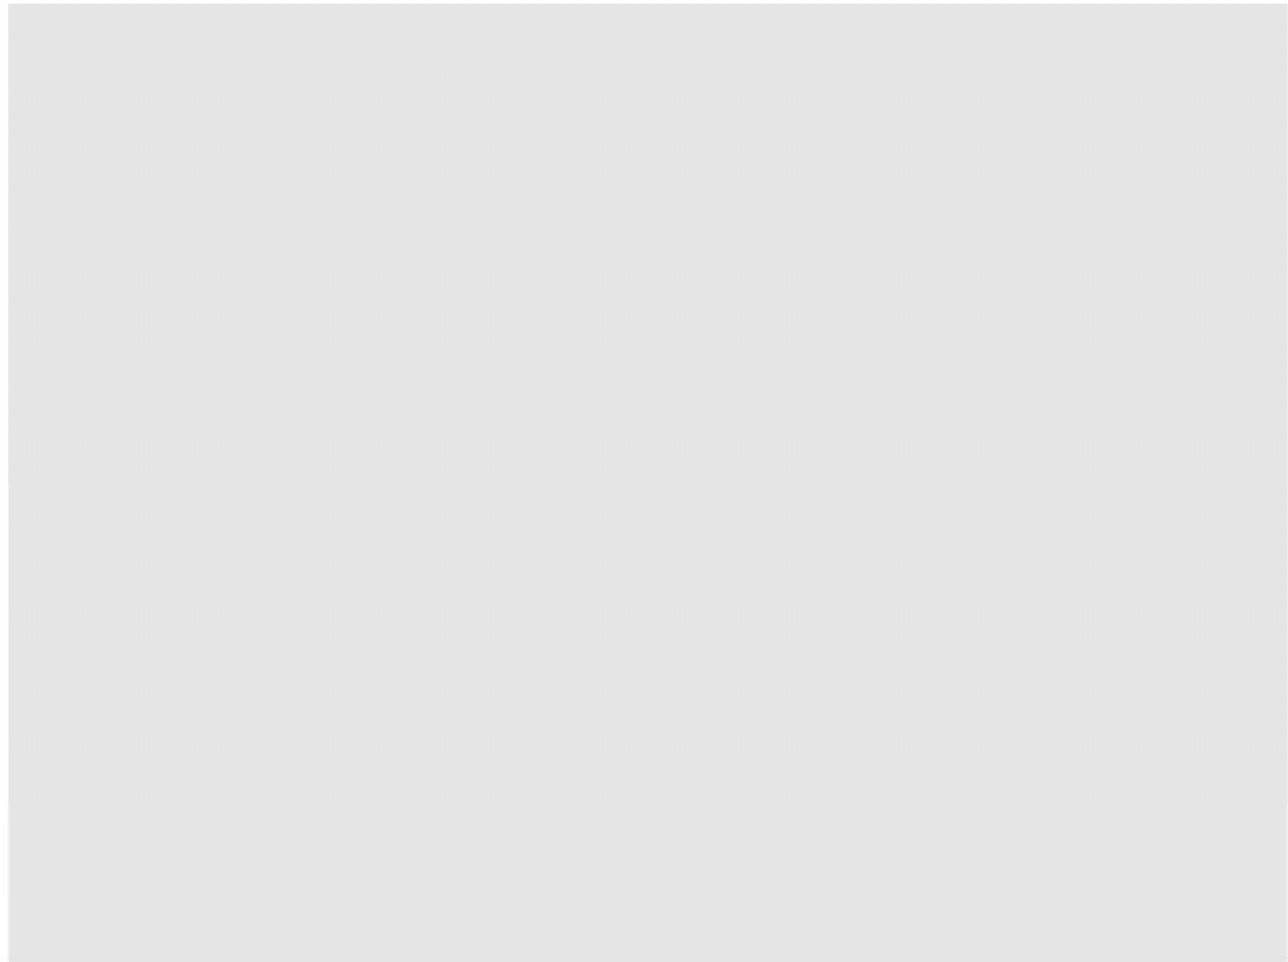

THE WORLD-HERALD

Buy Now

2005: Gary Rodkin is named CEO.

2012: Company acquires Bertolli, which makes Italian sauces and frozen dinners. Also joining the brand roster that year was P.F. Chang's, a maker of frozen Chinese dinners.

2013: $6.7 billion purchase of St. Louis-based Ralcorp makes ConAgra North America's biggest manufacturer of store-brand packaged foods, such as cereals, crackers and condiments.

ConAgra CEO Sean Connolly
KENT SIEVERS/THE WORLD-HERALD

Buy Now

2015: Sean Connolly, 49, is named president and chief executive officer, replacing Gary Rodkin.

2015: Company puts private-label unit — the former Ralcorp — up for sale, as Connolly says he'll undergo a top-to-bottom review of every aspect of the company.

Oct. 1, 2015: Connolly announces that ConAgra will move its headquarters to Chicago, eliminating 1,000 corporate jobs in Omaha and moving at least 300 others to the Windy City.

Sources: World-Herald archives, ConAgra

ConAgra employees to learn of changes next week; job cuts likely but 'significant presence' to remain in Omaha

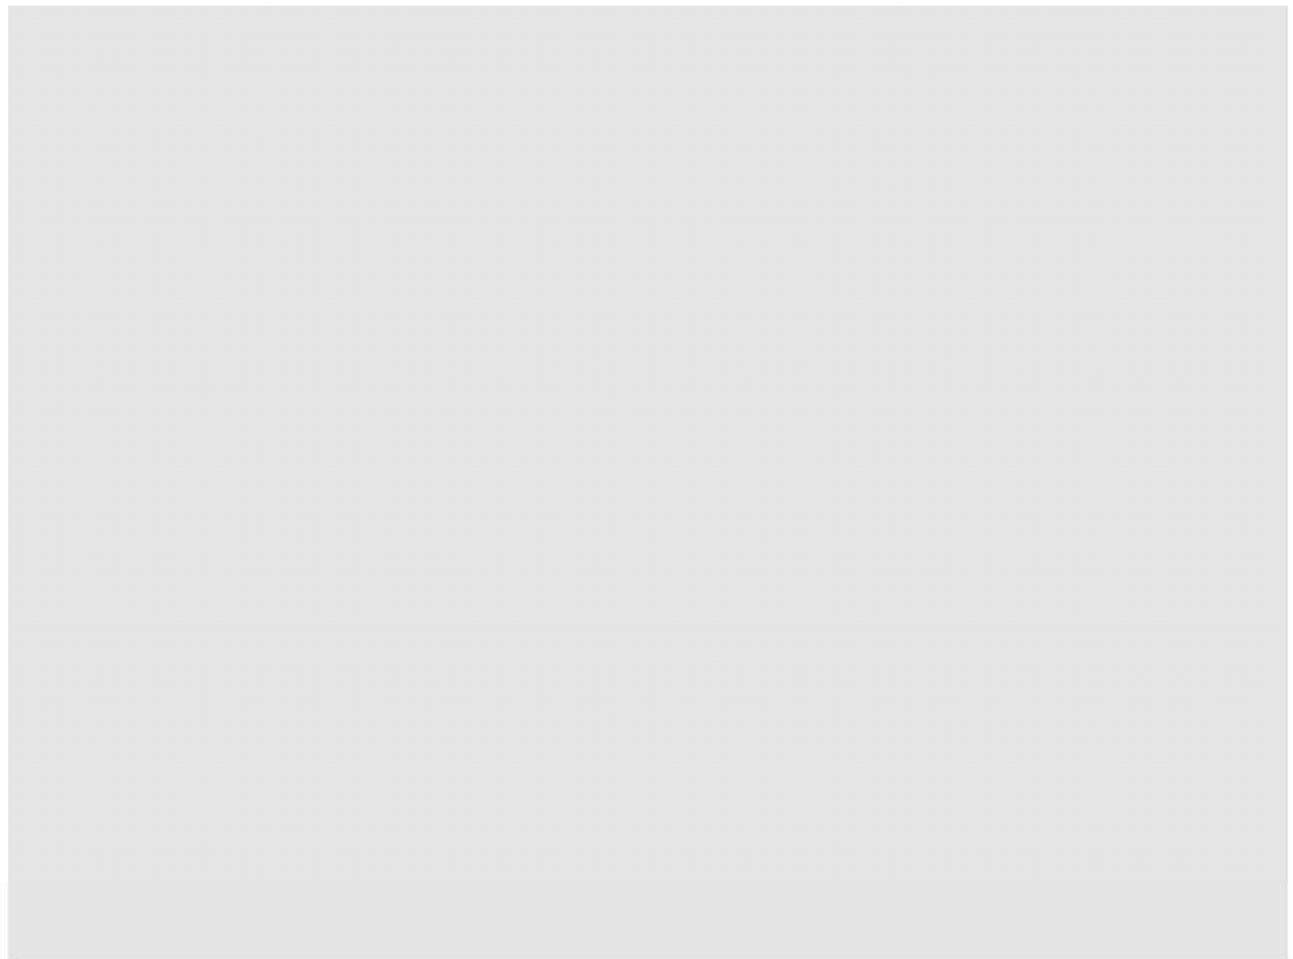

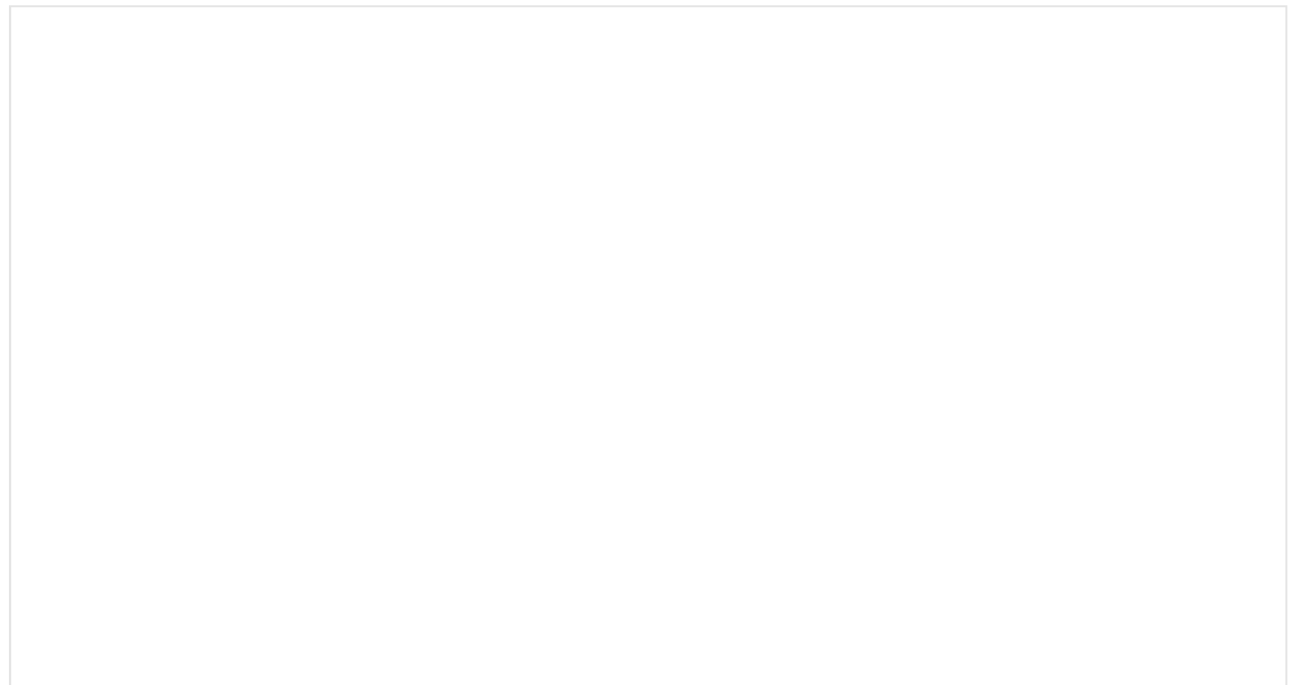

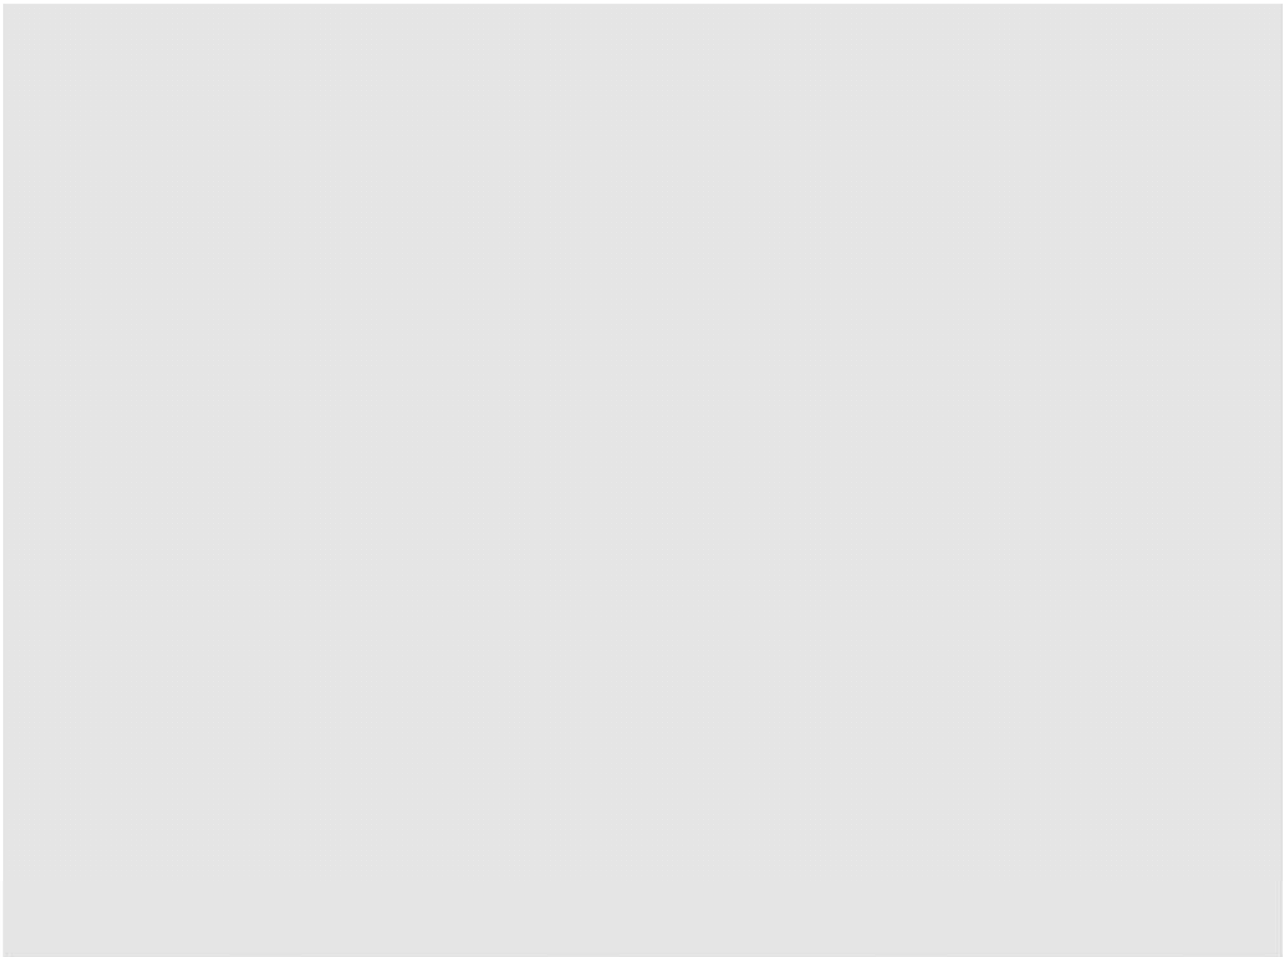

ConAgra's strict zero-based budgeting strategy could spell trouble for Omaha jobs

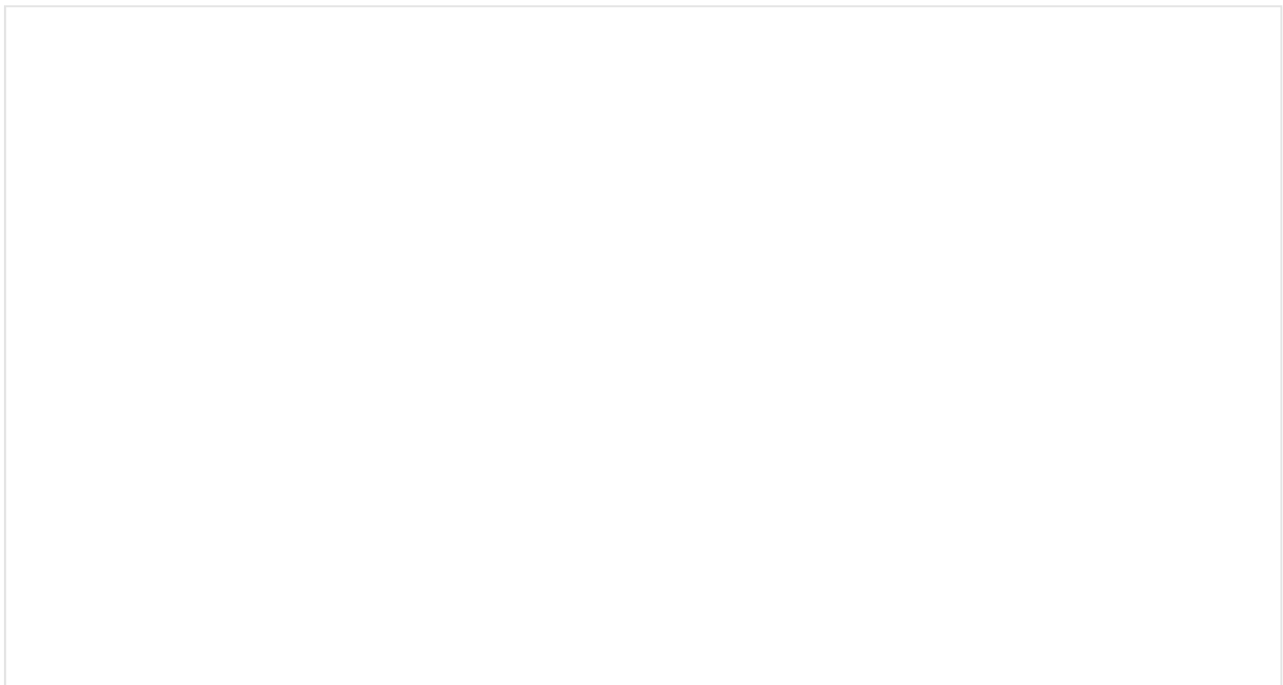

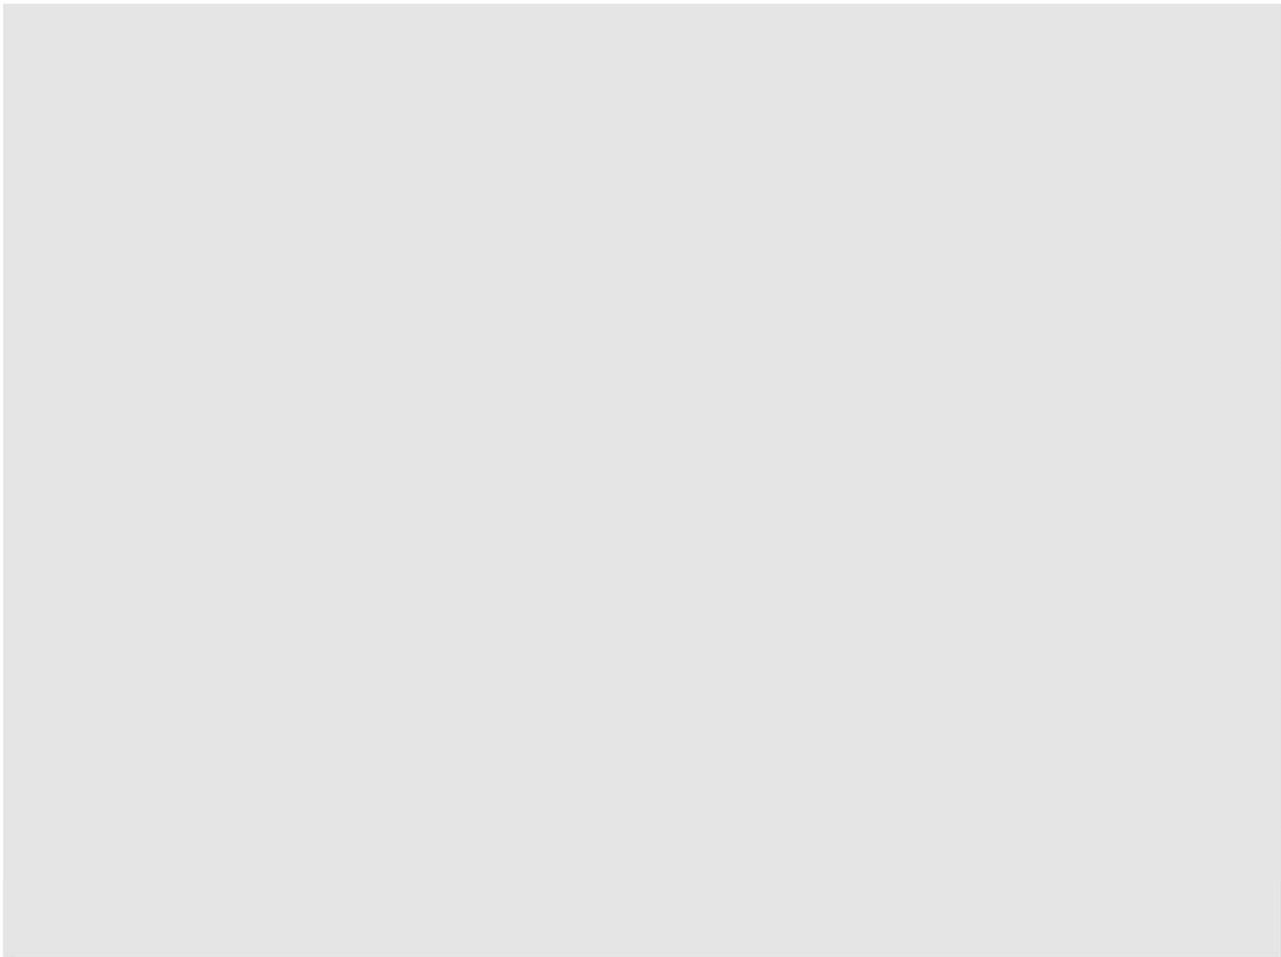

Will ConAgra's headquarters move to Chicago?

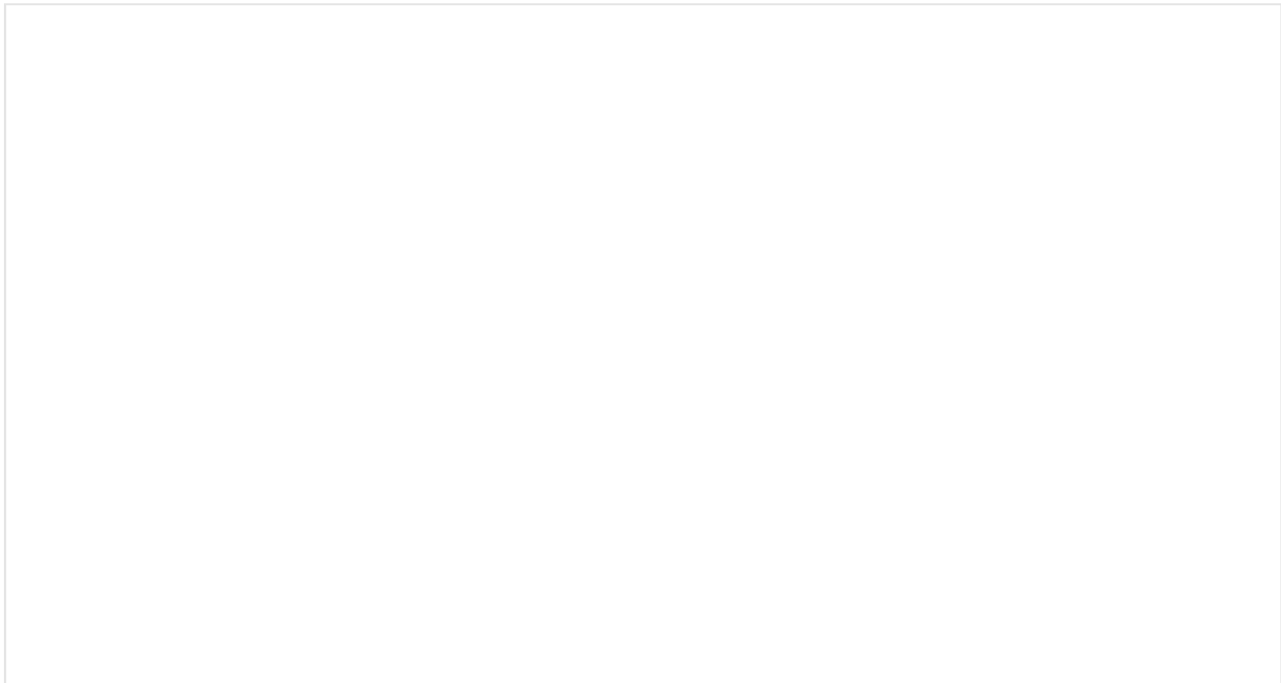

With ConAgra's headquarters moving, what happens to the riverfront campus?

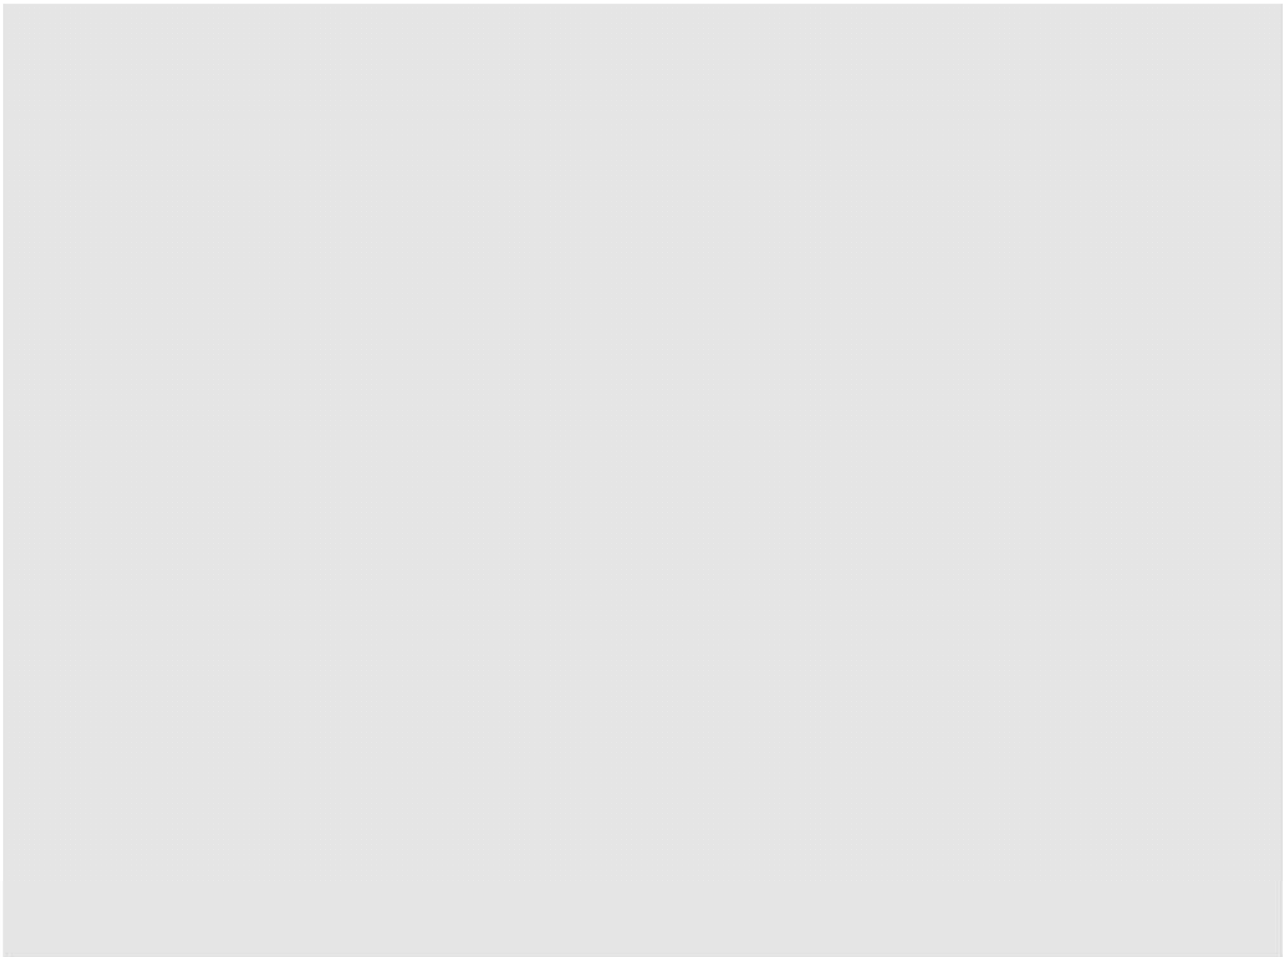

With or without ConAgra, Omaha's Fortune 500 club shows that 'we can support big companies'

After 'agonizing debate,' ConAgra moving HQ to Chicago, cutting 1,000 Omaha jobs

https://www.omaha.com/money/conagra-timeline/article\_7ef057b4-6222-11e5-948e-c35ecee8328e.html

ConAgra timeline: 1890-2015

Oct 1, 2015

Update: ConAgra has announced plans to move its headquarters to Chicago.

***

1905 and before: Several brands that will one day be owned by ConAgra Foods make their debut, including Hunt's tomatoes (1890), Wesson cooking oil (1899) and Hebrew National hot dogs (1905).

NOW PLAYING

10 of 20 " // ° HD

The Amount of Money Kids Earn From Chores Will Ma...

NEXT What in the Blazes?! Attic Fire Turns Out To B...

1919: Four Nebraska flour mills – Henry Glade Milling, Ravenna Mills, Hastings Mills and Blackburn-Furry Mill – consolidate and incorporate as Nebraska Consolidated Mills, headquartered in Grand Island.

1920s: A number of brands that later become part of ConAgra are founded, including Peter Pan peanut butter and Chef Boyardee canned pasta.

1922: Nebraska Consolidated Mills (NCM) reports its first profit – $175,000 – and makes its first acquisition, the Updike Mill in Omaha. NCM headquarters move to Omaha for better access to Omaha's grain market and extensive rail network.

Chuck Sass, left, Gary Beasley take break at Decatur mill on October 1, 1972.

Buy Now

THE WORLD-HERALD

1941: In the first company expansion outside the Cornhusker State, Nebraska Consolidated Mills builds a new flour mill in Decatur, Alabama.

1950s: TV dinners take off; Banquet Foods is founded and would later become a unit of ConAgra. In 1957, Nebraska Consolidated Mills completes its first foreign expansion with the construction of a mill in Puerto Rico.

1960s: The company expands to Europe with a mill in Spain. And with the purchase of Montana Flour Mills, Nebraska Consolidated comes to own flour-milling operations that span the United States.

1969: In NCM's 50th year, flour provides 40% of its total sales.

1971: Nebraska Consolidated Mills changes its name to ConAgra Inc. The company employs 4,105 people in 13 states, Puerto Rico and Spain.

1973: ConAgra common stock is listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Mike Harper was named chief executive in 1976 and transformed the company from a flour producer into a consumer packaged foods giant by acquiring firms such as Banquet and Armour Foods.

1976: Mike Harper is named chief executive and transforms the company from a flour processor into a consumer packaged foods giant by acquiring firms such as Banquet and Armour Foods. Harper was named chairman in 1981.

1981: Sales reach $1 billion.

1982: Grain is still a big part of ConAgra. The acquisition of Peavey Co. makes it the largest publicly traded grain merchandiser.

1985: Fiscal 1985 sales pass the $5 billion mark.

1986: CEO Harper threatens to move ConAgra to another state if substantial business and tax incentives aren't offered from state and local officials.

1987: Nebraska Legislature passes a suite of incentives that offer tax credits and other aid to companies meeting certain employment and capital expenditure requirements. Corporate jets are among the equipment qualifying for tax credits. Other parts of the legislation were seen as executive-friendly, such as lowering the state income tax for the wealthy and exempting profits from the sale of stock issued by a taxpayer's employer from state income tax.

1988: ConAgra joins with a partner to acquire Lamb Weston, a leading potato processor and now the centerpiece of its commercial foods division serving restaurants and institutions. ConAgra later comes to own the entire Lamb Weston operation. The first Healthy Choice frozen dinners are introduced.

Former St. Louis resident Jim Miller on the new ConAgra building 4th floor on August 6, 1989.

Buy Now

THE WORLD-HERALD

1989: The new company headquarters on the Missouri River in downtown Omaha opens, built on the site of the historic Jobbers Canyon warehouse district where more than 20 buildings were demolished to make way for the new campus.

1990: ConAgra makes its largest acquisition to date, buying Beatrice Foods. The deal adds well-known brands such as Hunt's tomatoes, La Choy Asian dinners and sauces, Orville Redenbacher's popcorn, Wesson oil and Swiss Miss cocoa.

Mike Harper, left, and Phillip Fletcher at the company's headquarters on July 7, 1991

1992: Phil Fletcher is named chairman and chief executive officer, replacing Mike Harper.

Bruce Rohde

1997: Bruce Rohde is named chief executive officer and becomes chairman in 1998.

NOW PLAYING 10 of 20 " // ° HD

If You Have a Cold, You May Want to Skip the Cough...

NEXT The Amount of Money Kids Earn From Chores...

1998: ConAgra acquires more brands – Fleischmann’s, Parkay, Blue Bonnet, Egg

Beaters, Slim Jim and Pemmican.

2000: ConAgra Inc. becomes ConAgra Foods Inc.

2002: ConAgra sells meat, seafood and cheese businesses such as Butterball, Armour, Eckrich, Swissrose and Louis Kemp.

2004: ConAgra Foods' sales mix, 51% of which came from fresh meat and other commodities in 1998, continues to change, with more than 80% coming from branded packaged foods.

Former ConAgra CEO Gary Rodkin

THE WORLD-HERALD

Buy Now

2005: Gary Rodkin is named CEO.

2012: Company acquires Bertolli, which makes Italian sauces and frozen dinners. Also joining the brand roster that year was P.F. Chang's, a maker of frozen Chinese dinners.

2013: $6.7 billion purchase of St. Louis-based Ralcorp makes ConAgra North America's biggest manufacturer of store-brand packaged foods, such as cereals, crackers and condiments.

ConAgra CEO Sean Connolly
KENT SIEVERS/THE WORLD-HERALD

Buy Now

2015: Sean Connolly, 49, is named president and chief executive officer, replacing Gary Rodkin.

2015: Company puts private-label unit — the former Ralcorp — up for sale, as Connolly says he'll undergo a top-to-bottom review of every aspect of the company.

Oct. 1, 2015: Connolly announces that ConAgra will move its headquarters to Chicago, eliminating 1,000 corporate jobs in Omaha and moving at least 300 others to the Windy City.

Sources: World-Herald archives, ConAgra

ConAgra employees to learn of changes next week; job cuts likely but 'significant presence' to remain in Omaha

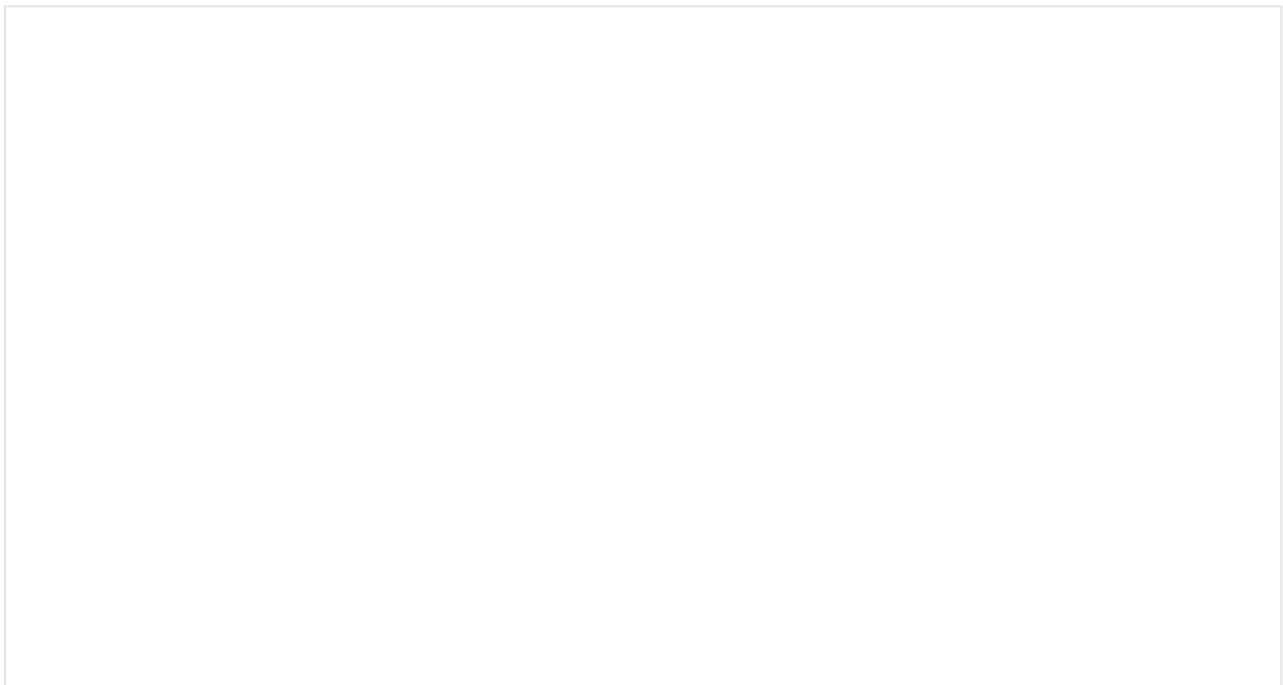

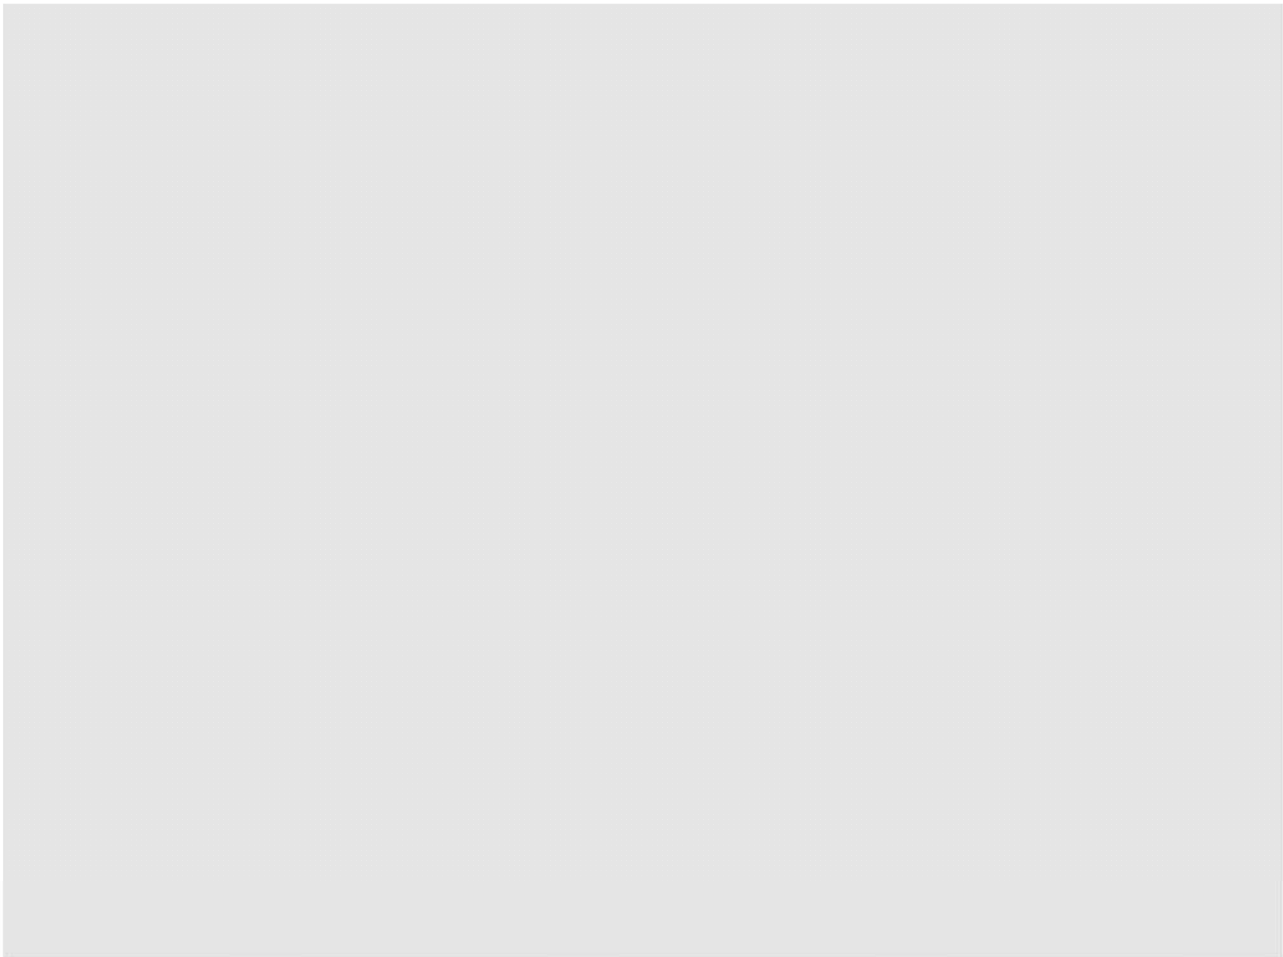

ConAgra's strict zero-based budgeting strategy could spell trouble for Omaha jobs

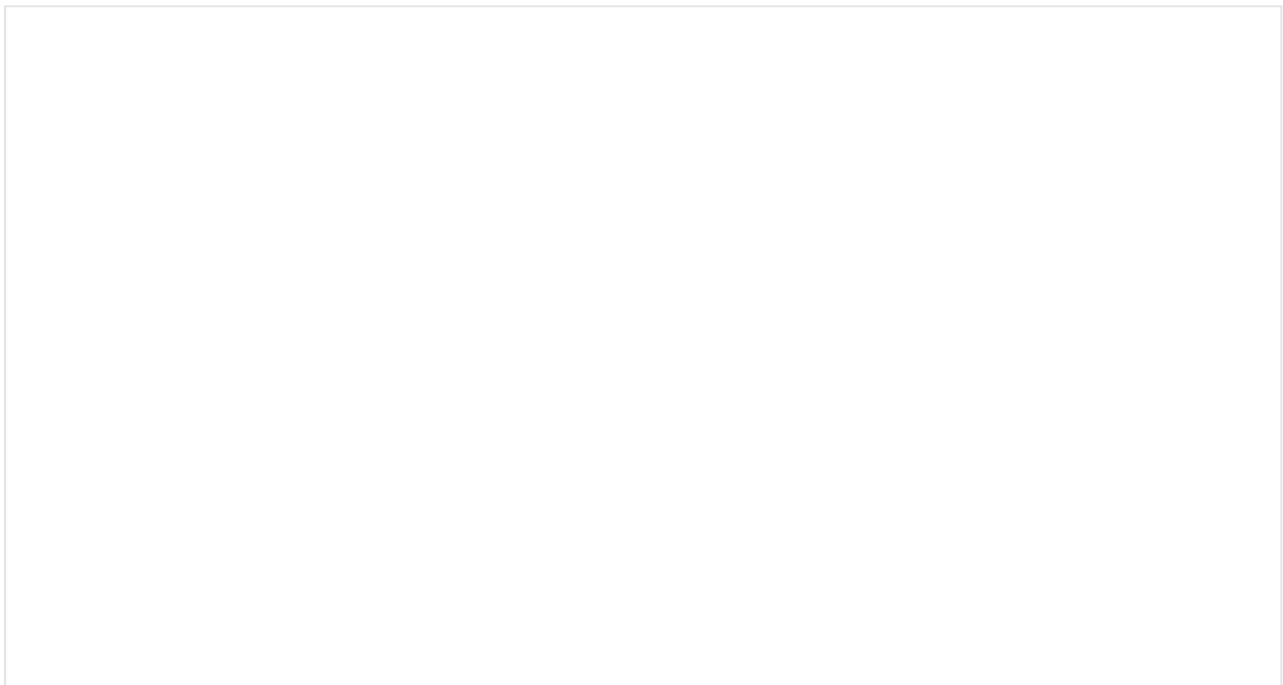

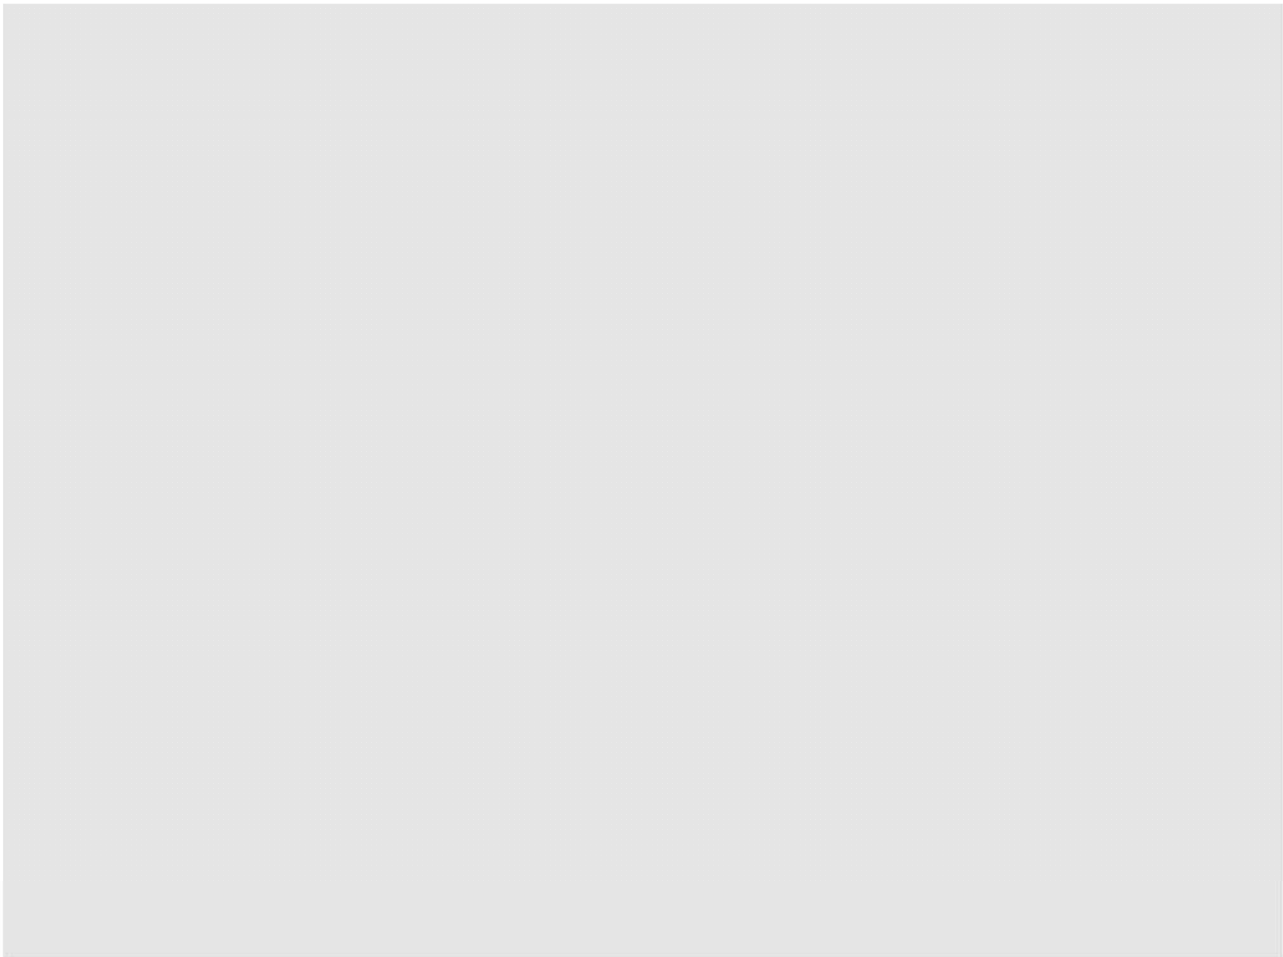

Will ConAgra's headquarters move to Chicago?

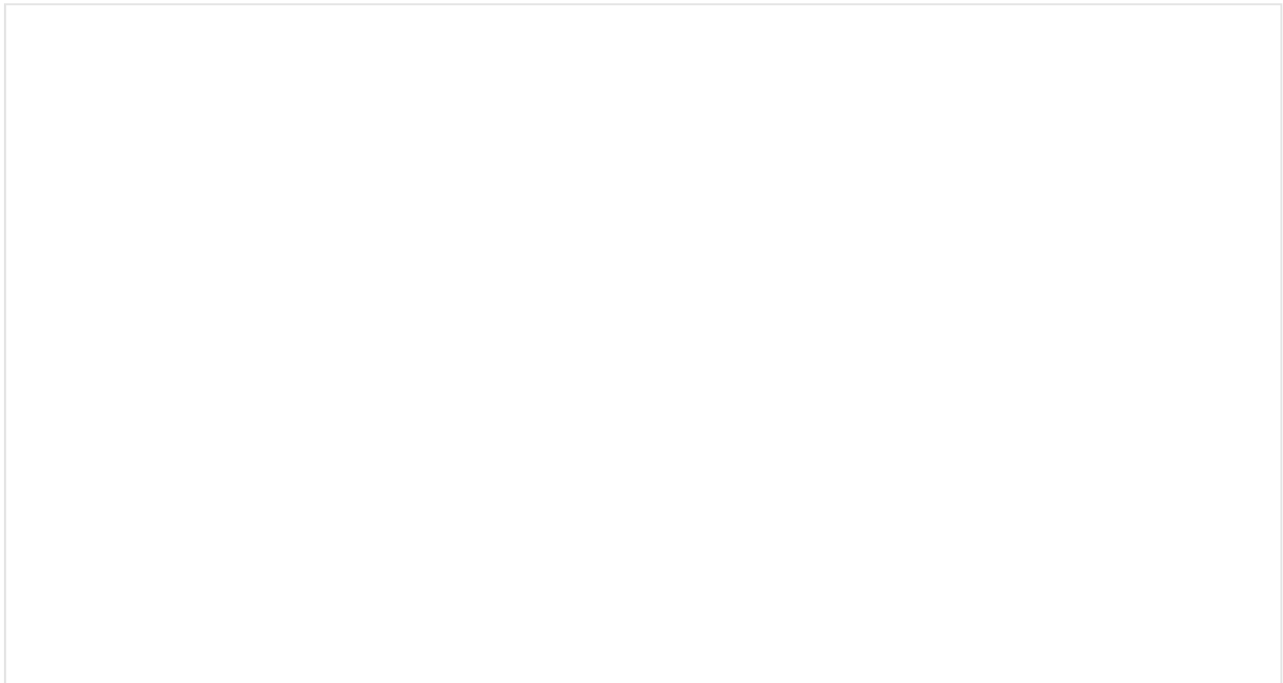

With ConAgra's headquarters moving, what happens to the riverfront campus?

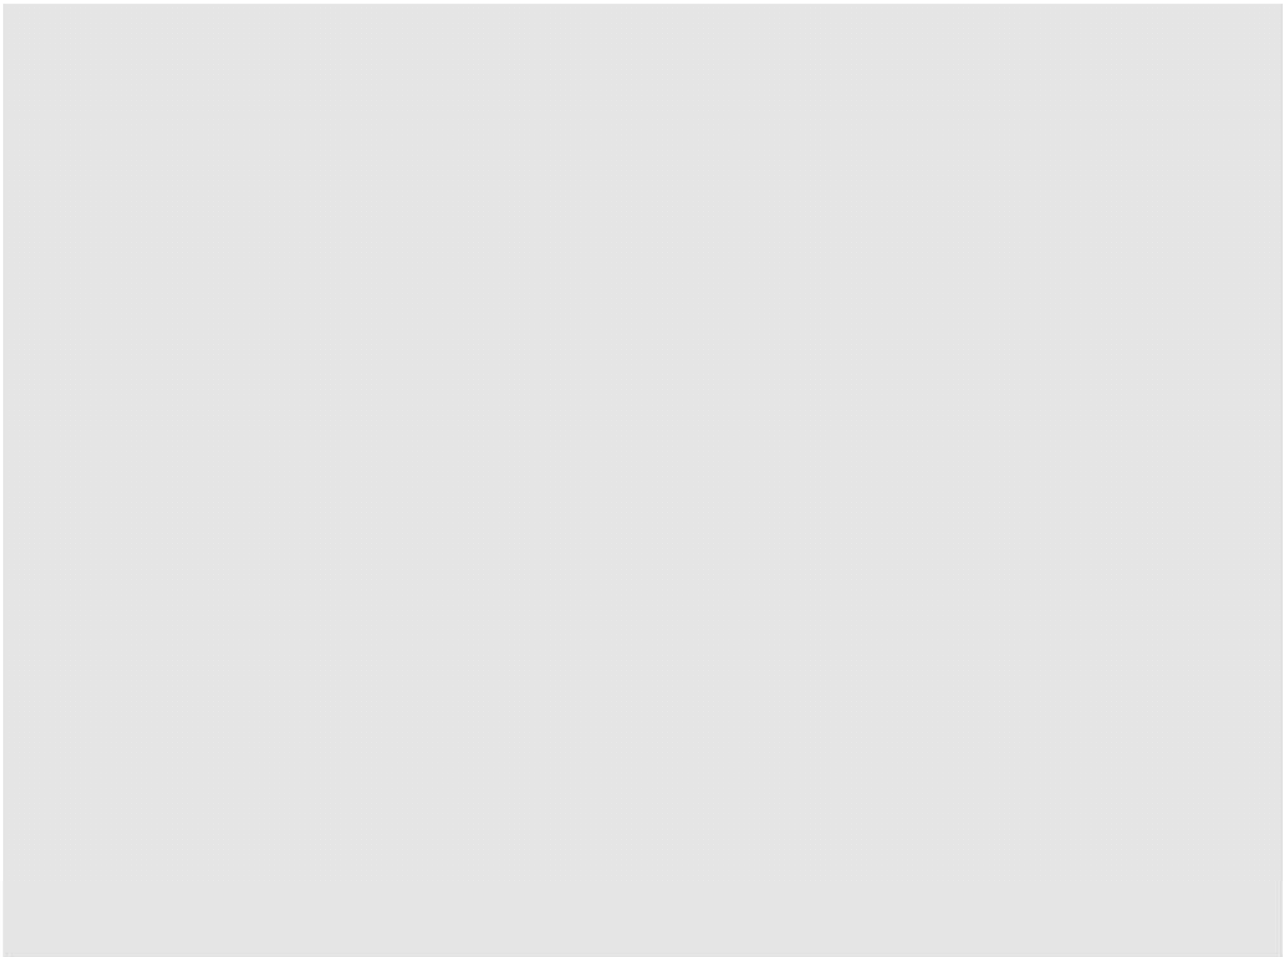

With or without ConAgra, Omaha's Fortune 500 club shows that 'we can support big companies'

After 'agonizing debate,' ConAgra moving HQ to Chicago, cutting 1,000 Omaha jobs

